Craft

PAWPRINT
BADGES

-  Make a felt pizza. You could even make a mini felt pizza and turn it into a brooch or clothes pin.
-  Design your own pizza box. Why not draw your design onto our 'Mini Pizza Box' free resource? This can be downloaded for free from our website.
-  Transform a paper plate into a pizza. Use pencils, pens or paint to create your paper pizza. You could use it to set up a pretend pizza restaurant to serve to your 'guests' for your 'other' activity.
-  Make a 2D shape pizza.

How?

Cut out a large cardboard circle and a large circle of pizza sauce. Next, cut a variety of shapes out of different coloured paper to look like pizza toppings. Make sure you cut a mixture of sizes too. For example, you could cut out small pink squares to represent ham slices, or red circles to look like pepperoni. Once you've cut out all of your shapes, make your 2D pizza with the shape toppings you've made.

-  Mix, shape and form a play dough pizza. For an extra challenge, try to make a batch of edible play dough that you can eat.
-  Draw or sew together some pizza bunting. Why not hang it around the room if you're holding a pizza party?
-  Build a pretend pizza oven out of cardboard.
-  Create some pizza party invitations. Your invitations could feature a pepperoni pattern, or an imaginary pizza restaurant logo. Could your invitation look like a slice of pizza?
-  Carve potatoes to look like toppings and print a pizza pattern with paint.
-  Use our free 'Mini Pizza Box' resource to make and decorate your own mini pizza box out of paper or card. Download this resource for free from our website. You could use them as pizza party favours and put pizza sweets inside them.
-  Challenge yourself to make a crochet pizza. Find out how to make one on our 'Pizza' board on Pinterest.
-  Make and decorate a pizza party hat. You could have this as an activity at a pizza party for your young people to do. Everyone could make their own with readily prepared paper cones, string and paper pizza toppings.

Food

PAWPRINT
BADGES

-  You can't complete the Pizza Challenge without making an actual pizza! Construct and cook a pizza with toppings of your choice.
-  Bake a cookie pizza/pizza cookies.
-  Cook some pizza rolls/roll ups. Find these on our 'Pizza' Pinterest board.
-  Make a dessert pizza. Some people think it's weird, some people think it's wonderful.

How?

Swap your savoury toppings for sweet treats instead. Use chocolate sauce instead of tomato sauce to cover your pizza base. You could sprinkle giant chocolate buttons on top instead of pepperoni slices. Go extra sweet and make a sweet bread pizza dough too!

-  Bake a calzone - a pizza folded in half, and usually filled with toppings, before it's cooked.
-  See if you can list all of the different pizza flavours you can buy from your local pizza takeaway or restaurant (e.g. margarita, Hawaiian, Texas barbecue, etc.) Not sure which they sell? Take a trip down there and browse (or buy) the pizzas on offer.
-  Learn how to make your own pizza dough from scratch.
-  Bake a cake that looks like a pizza but tastes like a cake. Check out our 'Pizza' board on Pinterest for pizza cakes that are sure to top any other snack at a pizza party.
-  Invite guests around to your house and hold a pizza party or have one in your classroom/unit.
-  Order in a pizza takeaway or go out for pizza at a restaurant.
-  Try pizza pasta. It uses all of the usual ingredients used to make a pizza (dough is swapped for pasta) but with a few added extras. I bet it's just as tasty as a normal pizza!
-  Use the toppings of a pizza but make it into a different dish that isn't pizza.
-  Make a healthy fruit pizza with fruit of your choice. You could use a large watermelon slice as your pizza base.
-  Construct a tortilla pizza - a quick and easy recipe that kids can help with.

Games

PAWPRINT
BADGES

-  Roll a pizza. Roll the dice and see which toppings fate decides you should have on your pizza. From sauce and cheese to veggies and other toppings, you'll never draw the same pizza twice. You could even roll the dice as usual but actually make a real pizza with whichever toppings you roll. Download this game from our website for free.

Activity extension...

Page 2 of this resource gives you a twist on this game. Before playing, price up each item and give yourself a budget. Can you roll a full pizza with sauce, cheese, toppings, veggies and extras all for £7.50? Think about the cost of each item and how much they might cost in real life (e.g. a pack of peppers might cost £1.25, but a pack of chicken might cost £2.50!)

-  Create your own pizza quiz/trivia.
-  Pieces of pizza. Use the shape pizza toppings that you made for your shape pizza craft activity to hide around the room. Challenge your young people to find the hidden toppings around the room and complete their pizza before the other team do, or before the timer runs out. Make sure you get your order right! Orders can be called out by a leader, teacher or parent.
-  Play a game of pin the pepperoni on the pizza. Draw a pizza onto large paper or cardboard and cut out some paper pepperoni pieces to pin onto the pizza whilst blindfolded.
-  Get a slice of this action! Make a pizza as fast as you can. Go head to head with a partner, friend or family member and make a pizza from scratch or just add the correct toppings onto a pre-made pizza base.
-  See how many pizza toppings you can name in 10 seconds.
-  Balance the box. See if you can complete an obstacle course with a pizza box on your head. Need more of a challenge? Balance two boxes instead! Maybe don't try this with any pizzas inside the boxes though... that would be a dough-saster!
-  Pizza toss. Use the cardboard pizza you've made for your craft activity to see how far you can toss your pizza. Make the game more challenging by throwing the pizza with your less dominant hand.
-  Play Pizza Bingo. Draw 8 different toppings onto your pizza and cross them off as a leader calls them out. The first person to cross off all of their toppings wins. Download this resource for free from our website.

Other

-  Set up your own pretend pizza restaurant/pizza takeaway. Make your own restaurant signs, decorate with the pizza bunting you made for your craft activity, and serve pretend or real pizzas.
-  Plan a pizza making workshop in a local restaurant. Some restaurants like Frankie & Benny's offer pizza making workshops for children for less than £10 per child.
-  Write your own pizza menu with toppings of your choice. This could be a sweet or savoury menu, or both. Why not make your own menu cards too and use them in your pretend pizza restaurant?
-  Watch how pizzas are traditionally made in Italy or Italian restaurants near you. Some places even make the pizzas right in front of you.
-  For an extra cheesy challenge, you could make your own pizza making video. How about a slice of that action?!
-  Find out where pizzas originated from, right down to the town they came from. Is it where you thought it was?
-  Learn your fractions with pizzas! A classic maths activity for young children from the age of 5 onwards. Learn what a whole looks like, as well as one half and one quarter. No need for extra resources with this one. Simply learn how to cut your pizza into fractions at dinner time.
-  Invent your own pizza. Think about the toppings you would put on it and what your pizza would be named.
-  Read a book about pizzas such as 'Pizza for Pirates' by Adam Guillain or 'Secret Pizza Party' by Adam Rubin.
-  Dance along to 'All I eat is pizza' on Youtube. Learn the actions that the dancers do or make up your own.
-  Fine-motor pizzas. Use the play dough you made for your craft activity to pinch mini pizza bases round and round into a circle. Have a go at shaping your own play dough pizza toppings too. A pepperoni slice will be a lot easier to make than a mushroom!
-  Discover how the margarita pizza was named.
-  Find out how big the world's largest pizza was! Who made it, how wide was it and how much did it weigh? It's a big one, crust us.
