““What does he look like? Tell us, Dad.
Is he terribly big and terribly bad?””

““You're not the Mouse.” “Not I,” said the snake.
“He's down by the lake – eating gruffalo cake.””

““You’re not the Mouse.” “Toowhoo, not I,
But he’s somewhere nearby, eating gruffalo pie.””

““You're not the Mouse.” “Oh no, not me.
He's under a tree – drinking gruffalo tea.””

*““Wait!” said the mouse. “Before you eat,
There’s a friend of mine that you ought to meet.
If you’ll let me hop onto a hazel twig
I’ll beckon my friend so bad and big.””*
