

Elves treat you based on whether you've been naughty or nice but what does that mean? Let's find out!

For leaders

A great activity as a reminder of how we should all act. Young people should get together in groups, draw around the smallest person on a sheet of paper (lining paper is good for this). Inside the person they should write 'nice' characteristics and outside write 'naughty' characteristics. Once they've had a think they should share in the group and together make one list of naughty and nice things.
